FOREWORD

The yearbook staff has chosen "Our World at Campbell" as the theme for this year's edition of the WILDCAT. As we complete our high school education and the doors of the past quietly shut behind us, we realize that we have lived in a world of our own engrossed with curricular and extracurricular activities--examinations, research papers, basketball tourneys, and homecomings. Yet as the doors of the past close the doors of the future open to expose us to a world which is crushed by the oppressive weight of false "isms," universal hatreds, and man's own ignorance in the face of new, expanding frontiers in world knowledge.

Nevertheless, the education we have received at Campbell will help us to live a purposeful life and will guide us in our quest for a better world.

A TRIBUTE TO . . .

JOHN
FITZGERALD
KENNEDY
1917-1963

"Ask not what your country can do for you . . . ask what you can do for your country."

"Let the word go forth from this time and place . . . that the torch has been passed to a new generation of Americans--born in this century, tempered by war, disciplined by a hard and bitter peace, proud of our ancient heritage--and unwilling to witness or permit the slow undoing of those human rights . . . to which we are committed today at home and around the world."

DEDICATION

MRS. JEANETTE H. JONES

The class of 1964 proudly dedicates this volume of the WILDCAT to you, Mrs. Jeanette H. Jones, who served as our class sponsor and sophomore English teacher. Although you were not with us during our final year of high school, we feel that your lofty ideals are deeply implanted into our lives, and we take this opportunity to express our appreciation.

ADMINISTRATION

PRINCIPAL'S MESSAGE

At Campbell we have set up for you a realistic world that consisted of real life situations in which you have had opportunities to develop those character traits and skills which you will continue to use when you leave school for broader opportunities.

Your school life has been designed to give you many and varied opportunities for the development of leadership, initiative, cooperation and a sense of proper ideals and values, as are necessary to enable you to use the facts and knowledge which you have acquired in the subject matter fields, and in the classroom, for your own betterment, and the good of your fellowmen.

It is our hope, that in the transition from your limited and protected world at Campbell, you will be equipped, both intellectually and emotionally to move with distinction from a limited world to a boundless one.

CLASS HISTORY

Every good thing must come to an end and for the graduating seniors of '64 that time is almost here. So without hesitation let us look back into the past and see what our accomplishments have been.

In September, 1959, a new group of eager, bright and shining faces entered the portals of Campbell County High School to travel her challenging streets for five fruitful years.

As sub-freshmen our year was highlighted by the eighth grade talent show. Gloria Williamson, Howard Duncan and Steve Morgan won first, second and third prizes, respectively. Mary Hill won the "Outstanding Student" award, and many of our class-mates were recognized for having perfect attendance.

The next year we were called freshmen which fascinated most of us. As freshmen Sereta Hood, Christine Eggleston and Mary Lee Armistead won first, second, and third prizes, respectively, in the annual oratorical contest. John Leftwich won an award in the District Science and Math Contest.

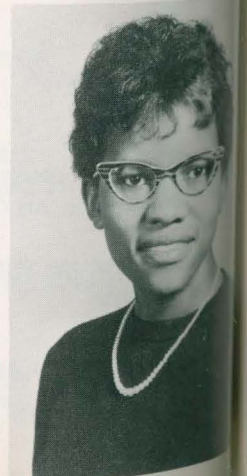

During our sophomore year Shirley Smith and Loleta Wood won prizes in the tenth grade oratorical contest. Gloria Williamson and John Leftwich won first prize in the Science and Math Contest. Edward Crews was awarded a letter for athletic participation.

And then we were juniors! We eagerly awaited the arrival of the night when we would present the Junior-Senior Prom, for which our theme was "Roman Holidays". Howard Duncan, Edward Crews, Howard Madison, Ronald McNeal, Donald Williams, Harold Hurtt, Thomas Jefferson and Howard Scott were awarded letters for outstanding athletic ability.

Our class has had its share of king and queen winners. Among them were Leosha Snead, Sallie Farmer, Sandra Bradley, Patricia Gentry, Gladys Payne, Mary Hill, Lillian Rosser, Leonard Wray and Lorenza Megginson.

Now our band wagon has almost reached its destination; we are about to say farewell to dear old Campbell County High, but we shall always remember the trail blazed by the Class of 1964.

CLASS PROPHECY

During the spring of 1974, my associate and I began our tour of the United States to learn, as social workers, some of the contributing factors to poverty in the United States.

As we were having coffee in the airport cafe while waiting for our plane to take off, who should we run into but Royal Lewis, who pilots a sleek B53F-74 jet. Royal told us that his co-pilots are Cornell Byrd and William Alexander. Glancing around the cafe I saw a slim attractive stewardess who Royal told us was Sally Farmer. After inviting Sally over, she told us that Joan Elliott, Joyce Farmer, and Joyce Rucker were also stewardesses whom she frequently worked with.

Since Sally had traveled quite a bit, she brought us up to date on the where-abouts of some of our former classmates. On one of her flights to California, she ran into Leosha Snead, Verdeen Payne, and Johnnie Taylor, who are successful medical technicians at Blair, Sacramento, and County General hospitals, respectively. Also on the staff at Blair Hospital were Connie Payne, Ernestine Parker, and Thereasa Panell who are registered nurses.

On our flight to New York we met John Leftwich, who was returning from Russia after conferring with some of Russia's better scientists on recent developments in bacteriology. John is now head of the bacteriology department at Yale University.

In Washington, D. C. Leonard Wray joined us in our flight, Leonard informed us that he is now a surgeon at Belle View Hospital in New York. He said that Mary Waller, Jacqueline Gates, and Mary Armistead were very competent nurses at Homer G. Phillips Hospital in St. Louis, Missouri where he did his internship.

Upon our arrival in New York we got right down to business and after a tiring day of conferences and meetings we ended up in a swinging night club where the main feature was that fabulous trumpet player, Perry Brice. Also appearing were Lillian Rosser and Maxine Tweedy, who are famous jazz singers.

After our work was completed in New York we were off to Detroit, Michigan. At the airport in Detroit we hailed a taxi, and to our surprise the driver was Calvin Nowlin who owned a Cab Company but was short of drivers that night.

As we arrived at the Hilton Hotel, we were met by bellhops Calvin Moon and Frank Randolph. After chatting with them for a few minutes, we learned that at the annual bellhops convention they had talked with Louis Robinson, Harold Megginson, and Bobby Stratton, who were also bellhops at three of America's famous hotels.

Calvin told us that presently Senators Howard Madison, Ronald Hamlette, Frank Morgan, and Howard Duncan were also staying at the hotel. Along with them they had their personal secretaries, Sereta Hood, Sarah Baker, Carthelia Layne, and Marietta Cabell. Howard informed us as we chatted with him that we could really benefit from our visit there because Zenith Yuille, our present Secretary of Agriculture, was arriving in Detroit the next day and he had traveled tremendously throughout the United States and could probably help with poverty stricken regions.

From Detroit we went to Maine. At the airport we ran into Sandra Cabell who was about to begin her trip to Paris to learn some of the latest hairdo masterpieces. Sandra is an employee at the famous Moore's Beauty Salon owned and operated by Louise Moore who also supervises a host of cosmetologists including Patty Smith, Geraldine Wood, and Rhodie Nowlin. We immediately went to the salon and like in every beauty shop we were brought up to date on the latest news. Louise Moore told us that she had just received a letter from Hazel Howe who is a famous fashion model in Paris, France, working with Oleg Cassini. Browsing through a GOOD HOUSEKEEPING magazine, I saw an article and pictures of ten outstanding housewives of the year. Among them were Gladys Payne, Mildred Patrick, Mary Robertson, Jannie Yuille, Gloria Cox and Sandra Bradley.

Patty, who had returned from a visit back home, filled us in on some of the current news on our old classmates.

This year Donald Williams and Thomas Jefferson led the Globetrotters to victory along with players Howard Scott and Ronald McNeal.

Harold Hurtt and Edward Crews are top professional baseball players with the New York Giants.

At Campbell County College, one of the most modern and largest colleges in Virginia, Gloria Williamson is head of the Library Science Department.

Mary Hill is a psychologist in Seattle, Washington and her associates are Leonarda Wood and Norma Haskins.

Loleta Wood is a speech therapist in South Dakota with the aid of her assistants Tessie Kain and Peggy Parker.

Larry Waller now owns the biggest and most modern funeral home in Idaho, and Glenn Jackson and Alphonso Scott are co-owners of one of Texas' big Oil companies.

After leaving the beauty salon and completing our business in Maine, we caught a bus to Boston. At the station in Boston we met Richard Davis who was about to leave for Utah where he was going to set up one of his Davis Men's shops. We picked up a newspaper at the station. The headlines read, "Wheaton: Next Man for the Moon." Reading on I learned that Benjamin Wheaton was going to join James Veney and Lorenza Megginson on the moon where they will begin construction of the United States' second rocket base.

From Boston we journeyed to the Midwest. On our flight we were browsing through a LIFE magazine, and we came upon an article on Shirley Smith, who is well known for her work with the Peace Corps in Nigeria, Africa.

In Nevada, at an exclusive night club, we were entertained by Lula Anthony who is now a regular performer there.

On our return trip from the Midwest, Edward Anthony, a famous artist who is well known for his famous painting "Polylisa" accompanied us. He is completing an art tour of the States and will be returning to Paris, which is now his home.

Now as we sit here in our office reminiscing our trip and thinking how nice it was to have met so many of our former classmates and to find that they are successfully taking their places in the world, we can truly say that we are happy to have been members of Campbell County High School's graduating class of 1964.
